Richard Rugg (confirmed)

Head of Public Sector, The Carbon Trust

"Public Sector Leadership; Cutting Carbon, Saving Money"

The Carbon Trust supports over 2,500 public sector bodies in their efforts to cut carbon and save money. Through a wide range of services it provides advice and guidance to help the public sector in responding to both the risks and opportunities that climate change presents. With a renewed focus on the role of the public sector in leading the way, public sector bodies are now increasingly exploring not just the impact of their own estate but that of their wider operations and the services they both provide and procure. This session will highlight support available from the Carbon Trust in greening the supply chain.

Dr Rachel Mason-Jones (confirmed)

Head of Supply Chain Management, University of Glamorgan

“Greening the Supply Chain: Can Global be Sustainable?”

Dr Rachel Mason-Jones will look at the issue of the constant economic driver for global supply chain development to reduce cost versus the environmental impact of the systems, especially regarding the issue of rising fuel cost as potential traditional fuel sources get smaller, the growing consumer led market driver to provide more sustainable products and services and the difficulties of maintaining true strategic relationships on a global scale.
